

Weird

Clem Snide

You tell me youre different
You tell me youre strange
You tell me that there is
Something wrong with your brainSo your mother found God
And your dad likes to drink
But youre not weird
As youd like me to thinkYou painted your sneakers
You talk to yourself
You wont eat with me
'Cause you care for your healthWell, you wrote me a poem
And it didnt rhyme
And youre not as weird
As you act all the time
No, youre not as weird
As you act all the timeYou can tell me youre different
Tell me youre strange
You tell me that there is
Something wrong with your brainSo what if your mother found God
And your dad likes to drink
Youre not as weird
As youd like me to think
No, youre not as weird
As you'd like me to think
No, youre not as weird
As you'd like me to think, hey
