Broke Up The Time

The Futureheads

If I hear one more person talking about these days
Saying it's hard in this day and age
I will explode, how do they know
What it was like 2000 years ago?
A look at our cousins in the sea
They seem highly together, they seem to be free
But do they know what's going down on the land
Because the're down in the water with their heads in the sand
We broke up the time and put the pieces in a different order
We broke up the time and put the pieces in a different order
We look around when we bring it down
We gather everybody and look at what we found
People try and tell me that you don't feel ashamed
It's nearly finished but it's not over yet
And the facts are being so easy to forget
But do you know when we go over your head?
I don't mean to offend but you never understand
We broke up the time and put the pieces in a different order
We broke up the time and put the pieces in a different order
We look around and when we bring it down
We gather everybody and look at what we found
Broke up the time and put the pieces in a different order
(Broke up the time and the put the pieces in a different order)
Broke up the time and put the pieces in a different order
(Broke up the time and put the pieces in a different order)
We broke up the time and put the pieces in a different order
(Broke up the time and the put the pieces in a different order)
We broke up the time and put the pieces in a different order
(Broke up the time and put the pieces in a different order)
We look around and when we bring it down
We gather everybody and look at what we found
