Following The Leader

[from '...And A Master Of None', 2010]I'm people watching staring through the rain

With admiration and disdain.

Looking from my flat I can see the usuals sat

Talking, sipping on a San Miguel. There are those who stay and waste their time away

And do so with a smile on their face.

There are those who amble by and I don't know quite why.

I'm not following their lead. I'm people watching staring through the rain

With admiration and disdain.

A washed out hypocrite chomping on the bit

Working out why I'm off the boil.
