

Orlando

Slowtide

When I flew down to Orlando
I had this feeling that you wouldn't be waiting at home No, you wouldn't make it on your own and you'd start to feel alone, and you'd be with him, again just like every time I left the land and I believe ,as matters stand you wouldn't feel sorry...oh no

When I told you bout Orlando did you make a plan on how you'd be cheating on me? did you fantasize how good it would be? no, you'd probably disagree cause you've got used to these lies but I have seen it with my own two eyes a willing man between your thighs but can I blame him...oh no

And every stroke could kill could make my beating heart stand still but I have sworn to keep you safe from the altar to the grave

When I flew down to Orlando
I never told you that I came home earlier that day, I don't feel the need to hold sway these are thoughts that I can push away cause if I share you this time at least half of you could still be mine and maybe someday we'll be fine and you will love me...

Lyrics submitted by Kevin.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>