

When You're Here

John Fullbright

Ever changing, ever moving, ever finding, ever losing

Every moment of our choosing bears a cost

As for lonely I can show you

How to live a life alone

All it takes is getting used to getting lostSome are lovers, some are leashes, some are flings on sandy beaches some are silent 'till the chances are all gone

The queen of hearts dreams a lover

From that cold, cold King about her

While the joker makes his bed up all aloneBut don't I feel like something when you're here

Don't I feel my lungs losing air

Don't I feel I can show you

I'm the one you can go to when you need another heartbeat near

Don't I feel like something when you're hereAnd in my heart stands a scarecrow and if he's hurt he doesn't say so

And he chases everything he loves away

But at night when it's colder there's a bluebird on his shoulder

And he whispers that he'll hold her one bright day
