

Forever Light Will Shine

Alan Doyle

Well a soldier lay down on the hilltop
Over there where it's sunny and blue
    All the troops have gone home
    And left him alone
Commanding a beautiful viewAnd he dreams of the girl that he loved once
    How he told her that they'd never part
    Of a picture he brought into battle
A picture kept close to his heartAnd the soul goes on forever
    Love is stronger than time
    All broken men
    Will be happy again
    Forever
    Forever light will shine
All his medals they turned into flowers
    And his clothes, slowly to dust
And the rifle he wore on his shoulder so proud
Is nothing but rustAnd his tears ran down to the river
    And the river ran down to the sea
    And the sea turned into an ocean
And the ocean is you and meAnd the soul goes on forever
    Love is stronger than time
    All broken men
    Will be happy again
    Forever
    Forever light will shine
And the soul goes on forever
    Love is stronger than time
    All broken men
    Will be happy again
    Forever
    Forever light will shine
