

Patch Of Bad Weather

Wade Bowen

Guess you should've known that I'd end up alone
I saw so many signs, but I kept my eyes closed
But everybody said that you were good as gone
And I should let you go, but I kept holding on And now I'm driving and I'm dying and I'm cursing your name
There's clouds filling the skies and it's starting to rain You told me we will gonna be forever
Heaven or hell, for worse or better
But you had your fingers crossed, yeah, you think you're so clever
Just blow through this town like a patch of bad weather
Blow through this town like a patch of bad weather Look at this aftermath, it happened just like that
You lay it all away so I can't get it back
I wonder where you are and who's your fool
I hope you're off again and that they are into you And now I'm driving and I'm dying and I'm cursing your name
And there's clouds filling the skies and it's starting to rain You told me we will gonna be forever
Heaven or hell, for worse or better
But you had your fingers crossed, yeah, you think it's so clever
Blowin' through this town like a patch of bad weather
Blowin' through this town like a patch of bad weather You told me we will gonna be forever
Heaven or hell, for worse or better
But you had your fingers crossed, you think you're so clever
Just blow through this town like a patch of bad weather
Blowin' through this town like a patch of bad weather You think it's so cool, yeah, you think it's so clever
Just blow through this town like a patch of bad weather
Yeah, like a patch of bad weather

Songwriters

MCCONNELL, SEAN MICHAEL/BOWEN, WADE Published by

Lyrics © Warner/Chappell Music, Inc. Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>