

Born to Die Together

Anders Osborne

You and me baby since we were young always had a streak of fire. You couldn't make us do anything our hearts didn't desire. Everything is gonna be alright, life always got better, you and me side by side your love will last forever. We were born to die together. We both followed the crescent moon, to a graveyard filled with wonder. We made love lighter than the clouds and fight like mountains and thunder. Everything is gonna be alright, life always gets better, you and me side by side, your love will last forever. We were born to die together. I won't forget no the days that were meant to go just like tunnel vision. Gods grace, I saw it in your face and the stars had made their decision. Everything is gonna be alright, your life just got better, you and me baby side by side, your love will last forever. We were born to die together. We were born to die together. Somewhere is, the power of this feeling. My love wont end, if the memories keep on reeling. This old blues is somehow worth saving. If every time I look at you, I know where I'm going. We were born to die together.

Lyrics Submitted by Margaux Campbell

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>