

Like an Island Rising

Cris Williamson

Crystals turning slowly, spinning lightly colored blue
And my mind is turning on you like the rainbows 'round the room
I was out there seeking water and you were coming up for air
And it began to dawn us how much the heart can care
And I do care for you, I love you
I'll be there for you, I love you Drink the water I'll bear for you

Like an island rising coming slowly from the sea
Causing tidal waves to beat and causing some catastrophe
The damage done, another sun shall rise and shine the day
The bird is swimming in the air, the fish is flying freely

*Flying fish, make a wish
Love comes in fits and waves
Sweet miracles can come between the cradle and the grave
Where there's a will there's a way

*repeat

Oh, where there's a will there's a way
Oh, where there's a will there's a way
Oh, where there's a will there's a way
