Further Away

From Here On

Taste this blood that has pooled around me
The last of me
The eyes of the righteous search my lifeless form
Expecting to witness a change
To fit this society, to engage in acts of the majority
I stay bound to what I know, knowledge you see as evil
My acceptance is quickly fading, as your hatred fills my heart
A heart once pure, now soiled with your ignorance
This mind wills stay open to all there is to offer
Your relentlessness pushes me further away
My patience has dissolved into rage as I grow weary of your promises
Set on the next life, yet you ignore the misery you have created in this life
Question all that has been taught, consider it a lie until you have given it a thought
