

Muppet Face

Xiu Xiu

should I treasure the rembrandt or treasure the light the bitter juniper is still food pull down your pants by the shi'ites tire my tounge over your gums, honey bee buzz upon me slip me a note oh god, what a donkey
it smells like fallujah a hammock rod this shirt clings like dander this kiss scrapes like rust, tiny, tiny paws covered in the dirt tiny purring sounds rising like a pike stabbing my hand like a sailor this last night of ours' pathetic tiny, tiny paw turning into dust tiny shining eye, rolling like a die casting my fate to the gristmill this last night of ours finally i'm surprised, oh, tuck away those ancient jugs of yours reacquainted with the brush of a skinflake cooped up between a jerk and a hard place you sight your eye off the tip of your gun
