

Come Home

Travis Cottrell

Have you hungered in the wilderness for a peace that your heart knew before
Have you wandered finding something less when inside you've been longing for more
Do you remember how it used to be when you lived your life more abundantly Come home, come home
If you're tired and weary come home
The Father is waiting to welcome his own, you've been gone so long, come home
You've been searching since you said goodbye like a child with a lesson to learn
But there's mercy in your Father's eyes as He waits for the day you return And it won't matter where your heart has been when He holds you close in His arms again
Come home, come home
If you're tired and weary come home
The Father is waiting to welcome his own, you've been gone so long, come home Oh why do you keep running from the one who loves you most so far you know you want to be Patiently He's waiting cause he longs to hold you close even now he's calling softly and tenderly
Come home, come home
If you're tired and weary come home
The Father is waiting to welcome his own, you've been gone so long
