Old Place

TimsDepartment

My Old Place

I walk i walk between the hills alone and slow my days are still so grey, it will never end the river flushes it away

the memories of your face is there still a reason to stay

i go back to my old house
I go to forget the new home
I go to forget you
the house, the place
where i will cry
the house the place where i will die because you said goodbye

the months the years they gone by for myself, i try my new life so strange but it seems so easy

i know every tree and i know every street the people have never changed everything is the same

i go back to my old house
I go to forget you
