Telemetry

Elliott Sharp

(d. sahanaja)Feel the alpine glow
Open a path through the air
It's charted out the canyons in me
However empty they might be
I still go onSpanning far and wide away from my world
I send my message
Hoping that you're somewhere out there
And I won't receive telemetry till you're hereTrace a ray of sound
Feel the pulse of my soul
So far evolved to climb from the cold
And like an ancient compass told
I still go onSpanning far and wide away from my world
I send my message
Hoping that you're somewhere out there
And I won't receive telemetry till you're hereI span the cosmos that found you
And I've never been this way before
I've built a kingdom to crown you
All that surrounds you
All that glows is gathered here and nowAnd I won't receive telemetry till you're here
I won't achieve telemetry till you're here
