Pieces

Fool's Garden

Hello, who are you? I never saw this girl before I was astonished as can be Somebody told me She said you're just a hungry little guy So I would like to offer me To bake some cake for you The sweetest one you've ever tried A special cake for you The one that makes you satisfied Good-bye sadness I'm dreamin' while you slip away She took me by the hand She really took me by surprise One piece of cake was not enough And so I helped myself We danced in fool's paradise And I got drunk of all the love Then I realized she moved her velvet body over mine I felt like melting ice I just admit this woman was divine Hey, hey, madness I'm dreamin' while you slip away While Buddy, the sweeper was singing a sad song And Mary, the singer swept the street The honeymoon's floating over the river Your cake is sweet I had a heartache All the pain was over now She said, "Bye, bye, little babe" It was nice to meet you She closed her eyes and disappeared I hope some day we'll meet again If apple or cherry-pie You honey-bee I love the way you bake Your cakes are wonderful Don't care about my stomach ache Good-bye sadness I'm dreamin' while you slip away

While Buddy, the sweeper was singing a sad song
And Mary, the singer swept the street
The honeymoon's floating over the river
Your cake is sweet

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/