

The Only Good Thing (you Ever Said Was Goodbye)

Joan Jett And The Blackhearts

Deal with it
Here we go
I heard the back door slam and you were
Goin' for good and I didn't give a damn
Oh baby, I knew I'd do just fine, yeah
I looked around for my cash
There was a couple twenty missin' I said
Imagine that, oh baby, you must've thought I was blind
You know that I gave it all to you
Promises I followed through
What the hell did I see in you?
The only good thing you ever said was goodbye
Now you're gone you won't see me cry
I won't miss you, no, not I
The only good thing you ever said was goodbye
I'm throwin' out all the things that you had given
Me for Christmas, though I paid for every one myself
I'm gonna be alright
I saw the writing on the wall
You were stayin' out all night and didn't even call
Oh baby, it wasn't worth the fight no way
Don't know why it feels so strange
You're the same, nothing ever changed
I know I only got myself to blame
The only good thing you ever said was goodbye, who, huh
Now you're gone you won't see me cry
I won't miss you, no, not I
The only good thing you ever said was goodbye
You only told me lies, only phony alibis
I invented what I wanted in your eyes
The only good thing you ever said was goodbye
Now you're gone you won't see me cry
I won't miss you, no, not I
The only good thing you ever said was goodbye
The only good thing you every said was goodbye, who, huh
Was a time when I would've died
I ain't kiddin', I don't lie
The only good thing you ever said was goodbye
