Love's Found a Shoulder

Nanci Griffith

My friends think I'm crazy and maybe it's true
'Cause I'll go on and love you this way
Though I have discovered that you love another
And hardly remember my nameMy youth was so crazy my heart was so lazy
Love never could stand me still
But, love's found a shoulder now that I'm older
With plenty of time to killI wish you well for your new love
'Cause true love is so hard to hold
You'll be the one that I dream of Till I find a love of my own
Now, here I am standin' in the cold winter rain
If hearts were of wool I'd be warm
I've known some kind hearts and I've touched a few
Though I never claim one for my ownMy youth was so crazy my heart was so lazy
Love never could stand me still
But, love's found a shoulder now that I'm older
With plenty of time to kill
