Strange Reunions

Yeasayer

Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

Don't ask me for any favors
And I won't ask how you're doing
Leave me alone now 'cause after all
I'm dealing with you is a nuisanceEver since I was young
I've been wondering this
Why we walk on eggshells
Around the wholly dimwittedAnd if, if your tongue slips
We might have to take to task
With all of our hallowed instinctsDon't ask me for any favors
And I won't ask how you're doing
Leave me alone now 'cause after all
I'm dealing with you is a nuisanceIf you could laugh at yourself
What difference would it make?
You could ignore dang cartoons
And you wouldn't turn into preyBut if distance persists
We'll preach to choirs raising high
Well, needless
I will raise a celebrationThis feud is getting old
No one is gonna be told to go along
Most of the questions have easy answers
Our only chance is let them be wrongDon't ask me for any favors
And I won't ask how you're doing
Leave me alone now 'cause after all
I'm dealing with you is a nuisance
