

Crossing the Frame

Coheed and Cambria

Home, a silence put to glass that stutters words misleading here
Gimme all you got with one shot sent to let me know
Here across the grass between the glass, I know
You're not the one I left to wait here helping I, I left in a sudden rush and never said why you
Couldn't know that I had no goodbyes
Oh but I wish that you were, I'm spyin' on you newo
The way that you would have been if I'd stayed here at home
I'm givin' it up newo, how important I would have been to you I press the steps I take to cross your door frame
You decide to answer when my fist swings hello I, I left in a sudden rush and never said why you
Couldn't know that I had no goodbyes
Oh, oh but I wish that you were, I'm spyin' on you newo
The way that you would have been if I'd stayed here at home
I'm givin' it up newo, how important I would have been to you Casting quarters into wells that hold our dreams
You won't believe me if I told you so
Casting quarters into wells that hold our dreams
You won't believe me, I would if you told me so But I wish that you were, I'm spyin' on you newo
The way that you would have been if I'd stayed here at home
I'm givin' it up newo, how important I would have been to you
