

As Famous As the Moon

Tim Di Pasqua

On that first day that we met
You sang a song, we sat together.
By that evening our friends bet
Before too long, we'd be together.

Everybody thinks they see
What was always plain to me.
My love for you is nothing new.
It's as famous as the moon.

When you smiled across the floor
A smile too soft would seem fraternal.
But we have never met before
And at the core, love reigns eternal.

It's now wonder they can prove
What to me is no big deal.
My love for you is nothing new.
It's as famous as the moon.

Some things are meant for you to hide.
Something's about to be revealed.
And even though at times I've tried
This could never be concealed.

There's no questions, no distress -
Don't feel the need to talk about it.
So many things I've second guessed
But not your love, for I don't doubt it.

I just waited patiently
'Til the day you came to me.
My love for you is nothing new.
It's as famous as the moon.

I just knew eventually
You'd be lying here with me.
Your love for me is nothing new.
It's as famous as the moon.
