Broken Bridges

Cara Dillon

I will not forget all the things I haven't said yet
And so I'll wait
Like water thrown on water, it's always hard to tell
Just where it endsGetting ready to be strung, there is sweetness to Every blowBroken bridges, wish I could lie down
Freedom angels come and save me now
So I lost my fortune then I found it in a glen Trees and branches led me straight to himOh my love, freedom caused us shame
On that breeze, your words call again
Will we learn to wait until tomorrow
Not knowing where we'll go?Broken bridges selfish now it sounds
Thirsty whispers told me to find out
Well, I tried to stay until the summer came Winter madness runnin' through my veinsOh my love, freedom caused us shame
On that breeze, your words call again
Will we learn to wait until tomorrow
Not knowing where we'll go?You say
Words don't mean a thing
You say
Words don't mean a thingYou say
Words don't mean a thing
You say
Words don't mean a thingYou say
Words don't mean a thing
You say
Words don't mean a thingYou say
You say

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/