Stillborn Universe

The Kovenant

Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

Lost in this place like fragments of another time
I close my eyes and see myself from above
Drifting apart like splinters of scattered glass
But we all have our own reasons to continueDon't you want it this way?
(I can't go on)
Don't you need it this way?
(I can't go on)
Don't you love it this way?
(I can't go on)
Don't you need it anyway?I can't come down when you're around
I lose control and hit the ground
Everything must change
And it all remains the same
This is a stillborn universeWe are battered, we are torn
(It pleases me to see you broken)
We're the hate that you adore
(It pleases me to see you broken)We are hollow, we are bruised
(It pleases me to see you broken)
We are numb and self-abused
(It pleases me to see you broken)I can't come down when you're around
I lose control and hit the ground
Everything must change
And it all remains the same
This is a stillborn universeYou thought that life would be so wonderful
You thought that all could be so beautiful
You thought that everything would be so simple
You thought that everything would be so perfectI can't come down when you're around
I lose control and hit the ground
Everything must change
And it all remains the same
This is a stillborn universeI can't come down when you're around
I lose control and hit the ground

Everything must change
And it all remains the same
This is a stillborn universeI can't come down

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/