Midnight Hour

Broadway Calls

There's been a mistake
It's written all on face
I showed up tonight
And I cleared out the placeI just wanna feel at homeI write my favorite hooks
Rip off my favorite books
The end result being the awkward looks
You laid on me tonightI'm like a river
Dammed, dried up and losing time
A great leader
Shot down before his prime
But I don't have that passion
Just an ego and moderate talent
Please understand
I know nothing of being a great manAnd I'm awake
And this thing inside, just let me know it never died
And I'm awake
And I feel it now, my summer soul was hiding outI was stuck in the midnight hourThere's been a mistake
It's written all on face
I showed up tonight
And I cleared out the placeI just wanna feel at homeWe're all victims of
A half decade's love
Never to find the balance between
Party and alone, let it go
I'm like a river
Dammed, dried up and losing time
A great leader
Shot down before his primeBut I don't have that passion
Just an ego and moderate talent
Please understand
I know nothing of being a great manAnd I'm awake
And this thing inside, just let me know it never died
And I'm awake
And I feel it now, my summer soul was hiding outI was stuck in the midnight hour
Stuck in the midnight hourI'm like a river
Dammed, dried up and losing time
A great leader
Shot down before his primeBut I don't have that passion
Just an ego and moderate talent
Please understand

I know nothing of being a great manAnd I'm awake
And this thing inside, just let me know it never died
And I'm awake
And I feel it now, my summer soul was hiding outAnd I'm awake
And this thing inside, just let me know it never died
And I'm awake
And I feel it now, my summer soul was hiding outI was stuck in the midnight hour
