Indiana

The Samples

I remember the first time I drove through Indiana
Watching fences in the distance fade away
Once there was a girl I knew there and she was pretty
We kept in touch until we just went our own waysI remember the first time I drove through Indiana
Waving goodbye to the towns that we drove through
Far away I know they're deep inside a city
Rushing back and forth wanting only to get home
Once I was there in a dream meeting people
Without names and without faces they liveI remember the first time I drove through Indiana
I remember the first time I drove through IndianaI remember the first time I drove through Indiana
Watching semis hauling grain to the West
We're gonna make it all the way to Colorado
Where the mountains touch the sky and rivers bendI remember the first time I drove through Indiana
Thinking to myself how big this land really is
Amber waves of grain from a highway
Who lives in that house so far away?I remember the first time I drove through Indiana
Watching fences in the distance fade awayI remember the first time I drove through Indiana
I remember the first time I drove through Indiana
I remember the first time I drove through Indiana
