Coastline (Reprise)

Wunder Wunder

She was waiting for the sun to come to her
The time was running past as she took a different turn
I wandered where she went to hide
Was it under my own nose?
I wandered where she went to hide
I see her wave with her change of clothesTo see a way as your fading off down the road
To leave this place to another body all aloneA good-bye smile from a waving child
Up the coast she'll drive into my memories and fade
So just smile
He was waiting for the sun to come back home
Her mind had run on past as he played there by the phone
I wandered if she meant to hide
Was it under my own nose?
I wandered if she meant to hide
I see the waves of the changing coastWhere'd she go?To see a way as your fading off down the road
To leave this place to a another body all aloneAn awkward smile as she walks on by Doesn't recognize the timeless memories and fade we made
So just smile
So just smileA young boy tries as a young girl smirks
Sleepless lies and romantic talks
See these photos of you along the coastline
