

Seasons Change

Spoken

Today I opened my eyes
To a whole new world
Another state of mind
A life without you
So I try And I have wandered so far away
From your embrace
And still the seasons change
For the first time I realize
What I am without you And for the first time
I understand
What I am without you
So I try to hold on
To you, to you And I have wandered so far away
From your embrace
And still the seasons change
For the first time I realize
What I am without you, without you
I am nothing And I have wandered so far away
From your embrace
And still the seasons change
For the first time I realize
What I am without you, without you
