Black & White

In Flames

I am one with the world tonight I am proud to be this far from youYou say that you have no regrets But I know that you do You told me someone stole the eye I know him tooI've come to the conclusion, yes I know That between black and white There is no room for twoThe scale might be wide But there's no need to be blind Between black and white There is no room for twoI leave all the gray behind I see clear, I know that I'll findYou claim that you are innocent But tell me who ain't You think that you're gonna be saved There's no such thing as a saintI've come to the conclusion, yes I know That between black and white There is no room for two The scale might be wide But there's no need to be blind Between black and white There is no room for twoBlack and white There's nothing in between

Black and white

Nothing's what it seemsI've come to the conclusion, yes I know

That between black and white

There is no room for twoThe scale makes it wide

But there's no need to be blind

Between black and white

There is no room for two
