You Still Love Him

White Lies

I heard an angels voice, singing in quiet prayer
It seemed to pull my heart, slowly straight up the stairs
I spent that night awake, though you lay fast asleep,
I saw a teardrop fall, gently down your cheek
You still love him but she does too, she'll take him far away from you
You still love him but she does too, she'll take him far away from you

I crept out of the house, and tip-toed to your room,
But found your body gone, and left was just a hollow tomb
I think at times like falling into the deepest sleep
I wake and try to move again but find my body's rendered weak
I feel that just like ...
There's ghosts out in the square tonight screaming i want my money back
You still love him but she does too, she'll take him far away from you
You still love him but she does too, she'll take him far away from you
