

Remember the Alamo

George Strait

Girl you were always my yellow rose
And I was your one lone star
We always said
Together till death do us partWe had a love bigger than Texas
Where is that feeling now
It's taken some hits and some losses but it's fighting on
And standing somehowRemember the man who asked for your hand
In the moonlight of San Antone
There by the mission you let your position be known
That you loved me so
Don't forget where it started
Remember the AlamoI think we can hold on and make it together
If we remember when
And get back to love
The way that it was back thenWhen we were hopeless romantics needing each other
Willing to take a chance
We strolled and we talked down the ol' river walk
To the heart of where it beganRemember the man who asked for your hand
In the moonlight of San Antone
There by the mission you let your position be known
That you loved me so
Don't forget where it started
Remember the Alamo
