Lonely World

Limp Bizkit

When i reminisce ignorance was bliss, Back in the days where the magic exist Never be the same as it was, 'cause the way it was Just another day in the maze of a myth Had a lot of fun living life on the run, Never had a chance to pause to get a better glance Everything was free and everything was fast Never even thought it wouldn't last When you go the mind of a man in the middle Life is just a big fat riddle, so figure it out Always thinking that you know Everything little thing there is to know Buy you don't really know, ya know? It's like love, some people get it For some it's just a glove that just never fitted For me it's just a pain in the ass But i'm addicted to the taste of hopin' it could last[chorus] Another day another night inside a lonely world Another game another fight inside a lonely world Another wrong another right inside a lonely world Such a lonely world, such a lonely world Who's the man (the man in the middle) x4Maybe i'm a target for people that are bitter At least i can say that i've never been a quitter I remember high school, man i hated high school It was like prison with bullies always putting me down Just a little skater boy they could pick on I learned to forgive'em, now i got the balls they can lick on I loved sneakin' out when my mom was asleep With my gothic girlfriend makin' love in the creek With the mind of a man in the middle It could be the end of the world as we know it Still i never want it all, and i never want it now I just want to cruise, if i loose then i'll figure it out How the times flies, even with the blink of an eye When you're young you absorb like a sponge in disguise Then you get a little older and gather your thoughts It's amazing what you learn

When you've never been taught, ya know?[chorus]No matter how hard i can try inside a lonely world

No one can hear me when i cry inside a lonely world

I'll never know the reasons why inside a lonely world Such a lonely world (such a lonely world) [x2][chorus]
