Help You Mend

Bobby Long

you're too young to know any way out and you were drinking long before anyone had time to show no one knew this day was sad for thinking but then a fading trend and everybody really wants to knowwe have tough breaks, we have people to face, we have time before you have to feel that again we have fire on our burnt skin and it will heal
before you have to feel that again I will help you mendno one saw the statue in the road, or that the falling wind was cold and you didn't tell them all you had seen a truer mark of you would only hide in me and I still couldn't set you free or pull the only person back you had beenthere's nothing like the lonely feeling of falling but I will be pulling you back there's nothing like the lonely feeling of mourning I won't let it find me again
