A Tale Of Creation

Candlemass

On that day, the day of birth in the morning, that dawn of time I sat down to rest a moment when a song came to mind As I sat there I could feel it from within the magic came With my voice the mountains rose with my breath came lovely air With my tears the rain fell down
with the rain came the sea
With my blessing the first rose spread out with my feelings innocence
With my song the sun was born out of darkness giving life From my heart came love and joy and all the beauty you could find
With my tears the rain fell down
with the rain came the sea
With my blessing the first rose spread out
with my feelings innocence
In solitude, a song was born
By magic our dreams were living on A heart of light was found, it brought delight to my soul. My faith had made me whole ..... again In passion I saw the light a soul filled with harmony
The creation of a new world my anthem my symphony I sat there to watch the dawn all the birds began to sing
I left my song to rise and grow
It was time for me to grow
With my tears the rain fell down
with the rain came the sea
With my blessing the first rose spread out
with my feelings innocence
In solitude a song was born
By magic our dreams were living on
A heart of light was found, it brought delight to my soul. My soul had made me whole ..... again
