Under Control (Back To The Roots Mix)

Funker Vogt

They are watching you from far away everything is under thier control you can run but you can't hide in this very little worldso you better leave this place looking for a better world without watchers in the night where you can live in peaceevery little step you take every little move you make they're watching you they're watching you without respect for your lifeEverywhere are microphones they listen all day and night to every tiny word you speak in your very little worldso you better speak a word keep the silence in your heart no more shoutings anywere until they leave youevery little step you take
without respect for your life
