A Beast Am I

Amon Amarth

Conceived was I from chaos and hate Of malice, deceit and blood And how would they know my fate is to rise Against the Asa godsMy being is full, full of a rage An evil that can't be tamed It darkens my soul and blackens the blood A fire that fills my veinsSo how did I ever end up here? Humiliated, broken and weak I've waited for a thousand years To break these chains apart And to finally break myself freeI bit the hand off the mighty Tyr When I couldn't tare my ties Now banished, I dwell a sword in my jaw Awaiting the end of timeIn darkness I drown consumed by my hate Longing for revenge All father will pay for his deceit At the battle of RagnarkA beast am I, so vicious and grim They fear my mean, grinning teeth I bide my time, my sweet revenge Soon my ties will fall and finally I will by freeSo when you hear me howling You'll know that I have come for you When you hear me call your name Your life will end in nameless painConceived was I from chaos and hate Of malice, deceit and blood And how would they know my fate is to rise Against the Asa godsMy being is full, full of a rage An evil that can't be tamed It darkens my soul and blackens the blood A fire that fills my veins A beast am I, so vicious and grim They fear my mean, grinning teeth I bide my time, my sweet revenge Soon my ties will fall and finally I will be
