

No Joshua No

Max Romeo

No, Joshua, no
No, Joshua, no
No, Joshua, no
No, Joshua, no You took them out of bondage and they thank you for it
You sung them songs of love and they try to sing with it
But now in the desert, are you battered and bruised?
They think they are forsaken, they think they have been used Since you are my friend, Joshua
I think you should know, Joshua
Rasta is watching and blaming you Since you are my friend, Joshua
I think you should know, Joshua
They say, you must forward and start anew You know those who fought for you, you thank them for it
You led them across the Red Sea when fear of drown in it
But now in the jungle, you man, shout out, Lion
Older men are patient but they long for Zion Since you are my friend, Joshua
I think you should know, Joshua
Rasta is watching and blaming you Since you are my friend, Joshua
I think you should know, Joshua
They say, you must forward and start anew No, Joshua, no
No, Joshua, no
No, Joshua, no
I say, no, Joshua, no Since you are my friend, Joshua
I think you should know, Joshua
Rasta is watching and blaming you Since you are my friend, Joshua
I think you should know, Joshua
They say, you must forward and start anew You took them out of bondage and they thank you for it
You sung them songs of love and they try to sing with it
But now in the jungle, shouting, Lion
Older men are patient, but they long for Zion Since you are my friend, Joshua
I think you should know, Joshua
Rasta is watching and blaming you, blaming you, blaming you Since you are my friend, Joshua
I think you should know, Joshua
They say, you must forward and start anew Since you are my friend, Joshua
Know, Joshua
Rasta is watching and blaming you Since you are my friend, Joshua
I think you should know, Joshua
They say, you must

Songwriters

Maxie Smith Published by

CHARMAX MUSIC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>