

Carry Me Home

Nad Sylvan

Two young stowaways got on the ship
Now, they had to get away, a last call to board
I heard the captain say
Then there's a pale white widow coming up the ladder
She thinks she's on a quest for a new life
I can see how that could happen, so...I'm ready to greet, we're ready to go
Strutting the deck, do they know what I'm about?
Into the night -out of the blue- feel the spiteA weather change on the open sea
The skyline is wrapped in red
You succumb to me...
But its alright now your heart's not frozen
People cry in their sleep, they've spoken
The full moon dives and the night is eerie
When light has gone from your eyes, you carry me home
Carry me homeCrazed crowd flocking, talking all around
In the break of day - in the way they all sound
They know that something's the matter
Like father antinature, I am a fiend and a creature
Of the underworld, no boy or girl escapes my autocratic mannersThen under the deck
In a recess I'm licking the back of your neck
The murmur you make
Sweet as it sounds
I wait for the moment you quakeAnd the silence screams with a two-edged tongue
Like choes of future nights, they're your song unsung
But it's alright now that your heart's not frozen
People cry in their sleep, they've spoken
The full moon dives and the night is eerie
When light has gone from your eyes, you carry me home
Carry me home
The full moon dives and the night is eerie
When light has gone from your eyes, you carry me homeGive a little life to me baby
Give a little live to me here and now.
