

One in a Million

Backstreet Boys

Oh, she wakes up with the sun, she throws on her clothes
Hoping her car will start the second time around
The day has begun, the lines at the door
Serving up frappes until she cant take anymore I see it in her broken smile, oh I Wish I could tell her, youre one in a million
Youre going the distance, babe
Youre gonna work it out some day
I wish I could tell her, youre one in a million, but
You never even look my way No, she never looks my way
She never, never, never looks my way She ties up her hair, her make up is smeared Wiping the tears that she wants no one to see
She screams on the pain, I hear every word Why dont you know how beautiful you are Just see it in my broken smile, oh I Wish I could tell her, youre one in a million
Youre going the distance, babe
Youre gonna work it out some day
I wish I could tell her, youre one in a million, but
You never even look my way If I could be the light to guide you through the darkness, baby
If I could be the one to change the ending to your story
Id be one in a million, yeah, Id be one in a million
Someday I will tell her Youre gonna work it out some day
Youre one in a million
Youre going the distance, babe
Youre gonna work it out some day Oh, wish I could tell her Youre one in a million, but
You never even look my way Youre going the distance, babe
Youre gonna work it out some day
I wish I could tell her
Youre one in a million, but
You never even look my way
