

The Observer

The Flaming Lips

[Music: A. Nasseri / Lyrics: A. Nasseri] So all the stars

Will guide us on our way

The Sextant as a leader

Has duration for all days Look at the amazing sky

In long and profound discoveries

With a strong and a clear mind he's encrying

Secrets of astronomy In endless nights

He observes the sky

This publications will change the world Galileo Galilei Only what my eyes will see, I will believe!

Day and night - seperated by the light In Pisa he's required

To teach the theory

That the stars and all the planets

Revolve around the earth

But he believed

In a different truth

The helocentric one

Proposed by Kopernikus

A new age had begun The stolen sun

Made their fear rise

And man had sacrificed

A shadow was the reason why And all the servants of the cross - they will deny

Will deny the starlight In Pisa he's required

To teach the theory

That the stars and all the planets

Revolve around the earth

But he believed

In a different truth

The helocentric one

Proposed by Kopernikus

A new age had begun

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>