

Sinks

Little May

Hail to the night
I will wait for your call
Expecting life

Of some form to be shared
Instead I feel the weight of your stone bloodied heart
See how it sinks

Instead I fell the weight of your stone bloodied heart
See how it sinks
Still love it too
We remember this face

Four times a muse
Within this fault in your place
And can you feel the weight of my stone bloodied heart
See how it sinks

And can you feel the weight of my stone bloodied heart
See how it sinks
And I hope that someday we can change
And I hope that someday we can change

Somehow
In my mindless pursuit of happiness you caught from me sleep walking down the highway
No matter life or the death of me I can't contemplate the thought of being without you
I hope that someday we can change

Cause if you poke that tiger long enough something's gonna rise
Cause if you poke that tiger long enough something's gonna rise
Cause if you poke that tiger long enough something's gonna rise
Something's gonna rise
Somethings's gonna rise

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlrics.com/>