4-Day Weekend*

The Bluetones

i don't care much for tradition and i know you'll be leaving one day i cant promise that i'll ever be the one but if you love me til mondaylets seran wrap for the weekend and see who comes up for air first we can go and break some windows and run and run til our chests are fit to burst forget we ever said the wordthe future is dead that's what you said
its all in your head you see
not mine
i am fine
i'm alive
i've arrivedwe thought we could make a difference be remembered when the pyramids are dust but we've had to learn that these bridges that we build can be as fragile as a loved one's trustthe future is dead
that's what you said
not mine
i am fine
i've arrivedhere comes my everything this is my everything there goes my everything bye bye lovethe future is dead
that's what you said
not mine
i am fine
i'm alive
i've arrived
the future is dead
that's what you said
not mine
i am fine
i'm alive
i've arrivedlets forget about the question we've been dragging 'round for years clear the smokey air between us then say goodbye

and shed no tears
