

The Arsonist

Sounds Under Radio

We're colder now, and I'm drowning in words I never said
But our bodies still are breathing, colliding in your bed You're skin, lying under mine... it's always, bringing me back down
You fade, everybody out, everyone that you know
This highway is driving me, far away from home
But your body still is breathing in bed frames all alone
You're skin lying under mine
You fade, everybody out, everyone that you know
These words are blisters in my mouth from everything that you stole, that you know We're colder now, and I'm drowning in words I never said
You fade, everybody out, everyone that you know
These words are blisters in my mouth from everything that you stole, that you know

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>