The Breach

Dustin Tebbutt

We're all scared of trenches
And grow weak at knees
I want you to know that.
If all you've ever wanted was a dream
Then you know that I can't help you.
But did I show you love
In the author on my face
'Cause you know you left a hollow
Where your body cut an alcove.
Did I show you love
'Cause the silence never stayed
It's a breach I'll never cover.
It's a breach I'll never cover.
You happened out the back door
Laying bare this need
Oh, you open up this vessel.
And gather all the quivers
That never got to fly
And a one and only cipher.
But did I show you love
In the author on my face
'Cause you know you left a hollow
Where your body cut an alcove.
Did I show you love
'Cause the silence never stayed
It's a breach I'll never cover.
It's a breach I'll never cover.
