Cassiopeia

The Boxing Lesson

Come in close now, it's time to tell a story
Long ago and so many years before we Ever were, ever dreamed we even could be
There was her and her very first heartbeatAll alone in the corner of the night sky
Spiral bones of a supernova starlight Fell in love with another burning bright she Dreamed of a way to ignite she said,Tonight
Come on, come onÂ collide
Break me to pieces, I
I think you're just like heaven whyCome on, come on collide
Let's see what a fire feels like
I bet it's just like heavenJust like heaven
Just like heavenSuch a shameÂ nowhere near, even the near mist light years away
From the hope of being sun-kissedÂ anchored home in her interstellar sea but, poor lonely Cassiopeia
So she sighs and she burns with desperation
Learns to cry over love of constellations
Then the spark from a star shooting too close
They both smiledÂ what a day to explode, she saidTonight
Come on, come on collide
Break me to pieces, I
I think you're just like heaven whyCome on, come on collide
Let's see what a fire feels like
I bet it's just like heavenJust like heaven
Just like heavenLong ago in a sky built before us
A supernova grew up to be stardust
