MU330

My money's been spent on an empty apartment
The wind seeps thru the cracks it crawls down the walls and creeps up my back Ever since you in September decided you do better than cracks
    I want you back my car won't go it's buried in snow I think
        I lost my keys
    The cracks are growing and I'm going to freeze Ever since you in October decided you were over with cracks I want you back I could fight the could if I had you to hold Without you I may crack Last month you saw my walls and you were appalled
My toilet won't flush I think all of the pipes have cracked from ice Ever since this last November I couldn't conceal the cracks
    I want you back I could fight the cold if I had you to hold
        I need you 'cause I might snap
        I need you to fix my cracks
