

In the Mirror of My Love (I Stand Naked)

Frank Hermans

The curtains were closed while the fat lady sang
Her voice going higher and higher
There was smoke and fire when she appeared with a bang
My object of desire

Up the stairs, she said, to the left, then take the first door on the right
But when I went inside, there was no light, so I fled into the night

I was sneaking through the park, crawling in the dark
Walking in the rain with my pain
Why won't you revere me, won't you hear me
Can't you see I'm going insane

She was kind enough to invite me into her bed
Her legs going wider and wider
But I was misled, she was fucking with my head
Came onto me like a spider

Please, Frank, she said, I'll be your death, while you can offer me life
She could be my wife, an everyday strife, had to get out for a knife

I was sneaking through the park, crawling in the dark
Walking in the rain with my pain
Why won't you revere me, won't you hear me
Can't you see I'm going insane

I the mirror of my love I stand naked
With my disease in her I did fake it
I'm not myself anymore
From the white of her eyes blood drips on the floor

I was sneaking through the park, crawling in the dark
Walking in the rain with my pain
Why won't you revere me, won't you hear me
Can't you see I'm going insane

I was sneaking through the park, crawling in the dark
Walking in the rain with my pain
Why won't you revere me, won't you hear me

Canâ€™t you see Iâ€™m going insane

I was sneaking through the park, crawling in the dark

Walking in the rain with my pain

Why wonâ€™t you reverre me, wonâ€™t you hear me

Canâ€™t you see Iâ€™m going insane
