I'm a Telling You

Jerry Butler

I'm a-telling you, Oh I'm a-telling you
I'm a-telling you, Oh I'm a-telling youI got up, I go to work
I try real hard to do my job.
But before the day is done
I find out I done something wrong.Chorus:
(I'm a-telling you, Oh I'm a-telling you
I'm a-telling you, Oh I'm a-telling you
Days are getting longer
And my nights are getting shorter
And my way gets softer
And my work gets harder.)Now when I get home, the wife is mad
The little girl, she's feeling bad.
Little junior, he's got the blues
Says he needs a pair of baseball shoes.Repeat chorus
Now in everything that I do
I'm trying to make one dream come true
And maybe someday, Lord I'll find
Satisfaction and peace of mind...whoaRepeat chorusNow.....hooom hooom fade out

Songwriters
JERRY BUTLER, CURTIS MAYFIELDPublished by Lyrics Â© BMG RIGHTS MANAGEMENT US, LLC

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/