

He Broke Your Memory Last Night

Reba McEntire

Like a rare piece of crystal, like a fine China cup
I kept your memory all safely locked up
Afraid I could never love somebody new
I was trying to save what I had left of you Then he broke your memory last night
I felt it shatter inside
I guess he held me a little too tight
He broke your memory last night The moment he touched me with his gentle hands
Your memory crumbled like a house built on sand
He swept all the pieces of your love away
And then gave me his love to put in it's place 'Cause he broke your memory last night
I felt it shatter inside
I guess he held me a little too tight
He broke your memory last night
He broke your memory last night

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>