Stratosphere

Stan SB

They say I've got problems,
But who are they to say so,
I think my problems,
Are just things that they can't label,They don't know what they're looking for,
They don't know what they'll find,
But my sanity's the last thing on my mind,(Quiet)
Now suddenly it all becomes so crystal clear,
Jump to the skies, and wave goodbye to all our fear,This problem's getting deep inside my head,
Give me just a couple more days, they'll be telling you that I'm dead, without words,
While days keep turning that I just can't seem to seize,
Give me just a couple more days at home with my disease,Going backwards,
[Chorus Backwards]
Going backwards,[Chorus]
There's something waiting in the stratosphere,
It's waiting just to tell us what it's doing here,
Now suddenly it all becomes so crystal clear,
Jump to the skies, and wave goodbye to all our fear,This problem's getting deep inside my head,
Give me just a couple more days, they'll be telling you that I'm dead without words,
While days keep turning that I just can't seem to seize,
Give me just a couple more days at home with my disease,[Chorus]
There's something waiting in the stratosphere,
It's waiting just to tell us what it's doing here,
Now suddenly it all becomes so crystal clear,
Jump to the skies, and wave goodbye to all our fear,(Quiet)
[Chorus]
There's something waiting in the stratosphere,
It's waiting just to tell us what it's doing here,
Now suddenly it all becomes so crystal clear,
Jump to the skies, and wave goodbye to all our fear,Going backwards,
[Chorus Backwards][Final Chorus]
There's something waiting in the stratosphere,
It's waiting just to tell us what it's doing here,
Now suddenly it all becomes so crystal clear,
Jump to the skies, and wave goodbye to all our fear.

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/