God Wears Gucci

blessthefall

Take cover, run for your life 'cause I'd rather die
Than let you get away, get away from me
Run, take cover and save yourself
It's okay, you'll be going underFall to your knees is what you told to me
How can I believe?
When you live a lie to my face
It's nothing new to meThis is going too far
You let them in on all your secrets
And they're not following and now the best part is over
I hope you savored the tasteYou think you'll save us with your false impressions
You think it's working but you won't change meFall to your knees is what you told to me
How can I believe?
When you live a lie to my face
It's nothing new to meFall to your knees, fall to your knees
Lied to my face, it's nothing new to me
(Fall to your knees, lie to my face)Your time is running out, you should've have known better
Only you can save you now but you won't remember
Your time is running out, you should've have known better
Only you can save you now but you won't rememberYour time is running out, you should've have known better
Only you can save you now but you won't remember
But you won't remember, you should've have known better
So who's gonna save you now?