Morning

Philip Maurice Ramon

MORNING

I won a race yesterday
Today I've been slapped
Tomorow my time will be counted
The experiment beginning
Greedy of training
The machine is running

An old ritual to survive
I'm new unlike my posture
Molds make clones
But I had to run before I had to walk
Then I screamed and later I talked
To explain why I couldn't laugh

Newborn baby all is not so dark
Above all if you smile
Blow wholeheartedly on the clouds
And maybe you will find stars beyond

And now I'm almost a man
Unrecommended man

I fucked mum yesterday
Today I killed dad
Tomorow I'll be strong enough for life
Constantly improving knowledge
Always repressing feelings
Being mistaken increases learning

I won a race yesterday
Today I've been slapped
Tomorow my time will be counted

The experiment beginning
Greedy of training
The machine is running

And now I'm a man
Unrecognizable child
